

MANX ENGLISH: AN INTERIM CHECKLIST OF WRITINGS

[1] Adams, G.B. (1967). "Northern England as a Source of Ulster Dialects." Ulster Folklife, Vol 13, 69–74.

A review of Kolb (1966). Mann specifically mentioned 69–70 but treated with throughout.

[2] Barry, Michael V. (1984). "Manx English." In Peter Trudgill (ed.), Language in the British Isles. 167–77. Cambridge, Cambridge University Press.

Michael Barry was the Survey of English Dialects (SED) fieldworker for the Isle of Mann—for SED see Orton (1962), Orton & Halliday (1962–63).

[3] Cain, Philip (1939). "Changes in Speech and Custom in Rushen." Proceedings of the Isle of Man Natural History and Antiquarian Society, Vol IV, No III, 341–44.

Mention of a noa word for bait, brega ('untruth,' Manx), 342. See Lockwood (1966).

[4] Gill, W.W. (1934). Manx Dialect: Words and Phrases. London & Bristol, Arrowsmith.

See index, 'A. Allusions to Manners and Customs,' 189–91, 'B. Allusions to Superstitions,' 191–92. Quality of sources leaves something to be desired. This is actually Number 4 in the series of 'Manx Scrapbooks' although Number 3 only appeared later in 1963.

[5] Gill, W.W. (1941). "Manx Dialect Words and Phrases (Parts 1 to 3)." Notes & Queries, 15th series, Vol CLXXXI, 185–86 & 200–201a & 215–17.

[12] Orton, Harold & Wilfrid J. Halliday (eds) (1962–63). Survey of English Dialects. (B) Basic Material. Vol 1 (in 3 Parts). Six Northern Counties and Man. Leeds, E.J. Arnold for the University of Leeds.

Two localities were visited on Mann in 1958 by Michael V. Barry: Andreas (locality code Man 1) and Ronague (Man 2). At Andreas 6 informants were questioned between 27–31 October 1958 while at Ronague 4 informants were interviewed between 3–6 November 1958.

Biographical details of the informants at Andreas can be found in Part I (1962), 38–39, and at Ronague, 39.

For the questionnaire used see Orton (1962). The material collected is presented in phonetic notation in order of the questionnaire in Part I (1962), Part II and Part III (1963).

Two of the informants were tape-recorded and the tapes later transferred to disk. See SED Disk 6A.1.1, 2 sides (I a/b), J.T. Teare, farmer and tailor, Andreas, 85 years old (recorded by Michael Barry, October 1958), SED Disk 6A.2.1, 2 sides (I a/b), A. Crellin, housewife, Ronague, 80 years old (recorded by Michael Barry, November 1958).

[13] Orton, Harold, Stewart Sanderson & J. D. A. Widdowson (ed) (1978). The Linguistic Atlas of England. London & Atlantic Highlands, NJ, Croom Helm & Humanities Press.

Based on the Survey of English Dialects.
